BUYING TURKEYS FOR LOCAL CAMP

Six Tons Wanted for Thanksgiving Day Feast. Bids are Asked and Opened.

BUY OTHER SUPPLIES TOO

Potatoes, Cheese, Butter, Onions, and Other Items Appear on List for Coming Month.

Uncle Sam's boys now in the Gettysburg Camp are to have turkey for their Thanksgiving Day dinner. On Thursday afternoon bids were opened here for furnishing 12,000 pounds of the great American bird for the annual feast the last Thursday in November.

But this does not necessarily mean that the boys will all stay here until that date, it is stated at headquarters of the supply department. They are simply getting ready "in case" the six regiments are held here until Thanksgiving Day. Wherever the boys are, they will have turkey, and nothing will be allowed to interfere with this plan.

Bids on supplying these six tons of fowl were asked both for the fresh meat and for the frozen birds. They are to be picked but with the head and feet not removed, and not "drawn". For the fresh meat about 54 cents a pound was asked, while about 34 cents a pound was asked for the frozen. It is likely that the amount purchased will all be shipped in from the West as it is not felt that it would be wise to take such a large supply from this county and those surrounding it.

Bids were also opened on supplies for one month. These include:

300,000 pounds of potatoes.
24,000 pounds of lard.
10,000 pounds of butter.
2,000 pounds of oleomargarine.
10,000 pounds of cured ham.
6,000 pounds of cheese.
20,000 pounds of onions.

The amount of food required sounds even greater when it is reduced to tons. Imagine the soldiers consuming ten tons of onions in a month, for instance; or three tons of cheese, five tons of ham, twelve tons of lard, and 150 tons of potatoes.

But this is more readily understood when it is known that the population in the camp is just about three times as large as that in the town. Hundreds of new recruits have been received in the past few weeks, the trains unloading their men at camp, and little being known in town of their arrival.

TO DO WORK HERE

Lutheran Synod Takes Note of the Gettysburg Camp.

Special work among the soldiers at the Gettysburg camp, the adjustment of charges to enable the minimum of salaries of ministers to be placed at $1000 and the preparation for the centenary of the Synod in 1925, as recommended in the president's report, were authorized and committees named in connection with the celebration of the quadri-centennial of the Protestant Reformation by the West Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod, in session in St. Mathew's Lutheran Church at York Thursday. A saloonless nation was urged and a deficit of $1254 of the Ministerial Education Board wiped out.

CASE IS HEARD

Lay Charge Against Man Who Had Auto Accident.

Arthur Cullison was given a hearing before Squire Hill this morning on a charge of operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. Testimony was given and Cullison was returned to jail pending disposition of his case. He was driving the car which figured in the accident east of town earlier in the week in which two soldiers were seriously hurt.

CITY BOYS DOING WORK VERY WELL

Adams County Apple Growers Delighted with Experiment in Harvesting Crop.

WILL REPEAT NEXT YEAR

Enjoy their Work and Show that they Mean Business. Camp Life Real Pleasure to them.

That the camps of Philadelphia school boys which were established some days ago in the orchard belt, are such a complete success that they will likely become a permanent feature of the fall season in Adams County, is the prediction made by the camp leaders to the State officials in charge. The boys have done valuable service in helping to harvest the apple crop and to cut and husk the corn.

L. H. Dennis and H. G. Parkinson, State officials, have personally visited the camps and talked with fruit growers and the boys, finding all well pleased with the venture.

The State Public Safety Committee has financed the camps for this year, the boys of course paying for their board. The intention is to have the camps so organized that in another year the fruit growers of the community, benefiting from the labor of the boys in the camps, will be asked to bear certain costs which were borne this year by the State.

With the increased shortage of labor this looks like a possible solution to the problem, or at least a help in the right direction. It must be understood that the governing factor for success is the type of boys selected for this work. Many were agreeably surprised to find that these boys were here for business, willing both to be told and to follow instructions. But from the manner of selection nothing else was to be expected; the boys volunteered for the work and before they could receive the sanction of the various school heads they had to have a very high average in their studies, as well as a good record back of them.

The boys are to receive credit for their school work while absent and it is calculated that the new experiences will offset the instruction missed while away from their teachers.

Besides putting in a ten hour day in the orchards or corn fields cutting and husking corn, there is still time for some camp life. A campfire, songs, music and stories bring 9:30 and all-lights-out too early for many. Owing to their manliness and good behavior in the community many are desirous of seeing them back next year. Many fruit growers have been liberal with their praise and have meant every word of it.

It is planned to give the boys a tour of the battlefield and military camp on Sunday.

SOLDIERS GLAD FOR REST ROOMS

SEVERAL WRITE LETTERS

Salvation Army Man Relates his Experience. Another Hopes Work will be Continued.

That the soldiers in the Gettysburg Camp thoroughly appreciate the privileges afforded them in the various recreation rooms of the town is plainly shown in a number of letters which they have written to the local War Recreation Board, and to pastors of the various churches in which the rooms are located. The following are a few extracts from these letters which show just how necessary the rooms have been and the need which they are meeting so successfully.

One writes, "For myself, the social rooms in the churches have been like a beacon light. I was a Salvationist before joining Uncle Sam's Army and, of course, the rooms and especially the Ensign and Envoy sent here by the Salvation Army meant much to me. I have seen young men whom I have met in the last two months go to one of these rooms for an evening with me and, afterwards, you would see them changing their ways a little at a time until the boy who enlisted because he had some imagined grievance against some one at home was asking forgiveness. I am sure that those doing this work do not realize how far they reach."

Another, addressing a Gettysburg pastor says in a note, "It is my greatest desire that I should write you a few lines expressing my appreciation toward the way the people of your church have shown their untiring efforts to make our camp life happy. I may say personally I never feel so much at home as when I come to your place of comfort and rest".

A third says that one of the rooms has been a great help to him and to many others, while a fourth expresses the hope that "the good work may continue for a long time to come."

While many have written notes and letters to show their gratitude, many more have expressed the same feeling verbally, and those responsible for the recreation centers have been amply repaid for their efforts on the soldiers' behalf which they expect to continue during their stay here.

MORE MOUNTAIN WORK

Start Clearing Tract to Get Out More Stone.

The Blue Mountain Stone Company, which was incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000, as told by this paper, for the purpose of operating mineral lands at Jack's Mountain, has begun clearing off the large tract which the company has leased from the United States Copper Company. It is intended to erect a large crusher and a complete plant for the quarrying and crushing of stone on the tract.

The tract lies about a quarter of a mile east of Gladhill station on the Western Maryland, or Greenstone, as the government has named the post-office there. The property is near the western entrance to the tunnel.

The peculiar green rock found in that region, heavily charged with copper sulphates and silica, if not rich in copper, as was for many years imagined by prospectors, has been found to be a capital mineral compound for slag roofing, and already a large concern is in operation in the same vicinity.

THIRTY PER CENT MORE TO LEAVE

Local Board Notified to Have Seventy Two Adams Countians Ready soon.

NEED ONLY THREE MORE

List of those Certified Brings almost Enough for Next White Contingent to Camp Meade.

Last evening the following telegram was received by H. J. Hartman, chairman of the Adams County Exemption Board:

Howard J. Hartman,
Gettysburg, Pa.

The next shipment of white men to Camp Meade will be 30 per cent of your quota. The shipment will commence the week beginning November 2. Please certify at once all the men you can to the District Board in order that there will be no falling down on the shipment. Official notice will be forwarded to you later. Please acknowledge receipt of this telegram.

Frank G. Sweeney,
For the Adjutant General.

Thirty per cent of our quota amounts to 72 men. The Times publishes a list of 69 names above which have been certified back from the District Board as ready for service, so that only three more need be secured from here to compose the next white contingent. As many names are now before the District Board on which no action is taken, there is no particular hurry necessary on the part of the local committee, as the next list of certified names will more than fill up the small number necessary to complete our quota.

GERMANS BOTTLE RUSSIAN FLEET

Twenty or More Vessels Helpless through Superior Range of Enemy.

(By Cable)

London, Oct. 19—A great German fleet of the latest type of war vessels, out of range of the guns of the Russian battle fleet and shore batteries, is believed to have bottled up twenty or more of the best boats of the Russian fleet in the Gulf of Riga. Berlin reports their complete capture, while the Petrograd Marine Department expresses the hope that some means of escape may yet be found.

Petrograd, Oct. 19—Announcement is made that the evacuation of Reval, a naval base, was begun Tuesday. The retreat was made necessary by reason of the huge German fleet operating off the Gulf of Riga. It is declared that the Gulf of Finland is to be the next scene of operations. The evacuation of Reval indicates the greatest German naval advance reported in the past few days.

Petrograd, Oct. 19—Two German destroyers are reported to have been sunk in Moon Sound yesterday.

DATE FIXED FOR FARMERS' TOUR

Adams County Men will Motor to Lancaster on Monday, October 29th.

STEER FEEDERS' OUTING

Demonstration will be Given for their Special Benefit. Attractive Tour is now Outlined.

The Adams County Farm Bureau is arranging a steer feeders excursion to Lancaster County on October 29th. The purpose of the excursion is first, to visit the Lancaster County Stock Yards, which are the largest east of Chicago; and second, to attend a steer feeders demonstration on one of the Lancaster County farms in the afternoon.

Lancaster County annually feeds between seventy and eighty thousand head of cattle. The Lancaster County stock yards are the source and supply not only for Lancaster County but for all neighboring counties. On Monday of this week there were received and sold on the Lancaster market in the neighborhood of four hundred car loads of cattle. So a trip alone to this great cattle market is entirely worth while.

The Lancaster County Farm Bureau every year holds a steer feeders campaign for the benefit of the steer feeders of that county. Experiments at Pennsylvania State College, as well as feeding records from a number of Lancaster County farmers show the importance of economical feeding systems. Feeder steers are higher than they were ever known to be before, in fact, steers to be used in feed lots now are higher than fat cattle were two years ago. Grains and other fats producing concentrates have increased in price to almost unheard of sources and only the most economical feeding methods will produce net profits.

Under present conditions meat production is a patriotic duty and to keep our patriotism at its highest level, losses must be reduced to a minimum. There is no animal on the farm which converts such a high percentage of food nutrients into marketable commerical products as the hog. Feeding of hogs goes hand in hand with that of steers. These lines of discussion will be taken up at the steer feeders meeting by Prof. W. H. Tomhave, State College; Dr. H. H. Havner, State College; F. S. Bucher, Lancaster County Farm Agent, and one or two others.

These steer feeding meetings have been held in Lancaster County and have always been well attended. Lancaster county farmers have always been known as being very conservative but at the same time if they can be shown that a proposition means dollars to them they will co-operate very readily. Last year a series of twelve meetings were held with an average attendance of about forty. The local Farm Bureau says:

"Let every Adams County farmer who can arrange to do so take the trip. Rub elbows with your Lancaster County neighbor and exchange ideas with him. Final arrangements will be announced the latter part of next week and in the meantime decide that you will go and influence your neighbors to go with you. At the same time notify H. F. Hershey, Farm Bureau, Gettysburg, so that arrangements can be made accordingly."

APPOINTMENT IS UPHELD BY COURT

Daniel F. Lafean is Legally Banking Commissioner, Says Judge Kunkel.

OTHERS ALSO AFFECTED

Auditor General may Appeal and then Court Won't Hear Case until May. Brumbaugh Nominees.

The right of Governor Brumbaugh to appoint until the close of the next session of the Senate four of the state officials whom he appointed on July 9 to the offices for which the Senate, which had adjourned a few weeks before, had refused confirmation, is upheld by President Judge George Kunkle, of the Dauphin county court, in an opinion handed down Thursday.

The opinion was given in the mandamus prayed by Banking Commissioned Daniel Lafean to compel Auditor General Charles A. Snyder to honor warrants from him. The court overrules Mr. Snyder's motion to quash the proceeding and awards the pre-emptory mandamus.

Judge McCarrell made similar rulings in the cases of Superintendent of Printing Long, Fisheries Commissioner Buller and Secretary of Agriculture Patton, the Lafean case governing them.

The decision is the latest development in the controversy between the Governor and Senators who refused to confirm eight appointments. After the Senate adjourned the Governor reappointed the men and in July Mr. Snyder declined to recognize their appointments, holding that the Governor could not appoint men to places for which the Senate had rejected them. The Attorney General answered for the Governor that the appointments were recess appointments. The court upholds this view.

It is expected that Mr. Snyder will take an appeal to the Supreme Court, which will have the effect of holding up final adjudication for months as the Supreme Court will not meet at Harrisburg until May.

AGAIN OFFERS LAND

Tracts in Reservations to Any who Will Clear them.

Forestry Commissioner Robert S. Conklin has not withdrawn his offer of several months ago whereby any citizens of Pennsylvania may farm lands in the state forest reservations. While the number of persons farming this sort of land was not great during the recent season, the offer came at a time when arrangements for the summer had been made, in most instances.

The department announces it will permit proper persons to enter upon a reservation anywhere in Pennsylvania and clear as many acres as he wishes to use. And when he has the land cleared the citizen may remain in possession indefinitely, except that he will not be permitted to stay in such a manner that he could ever acquire legal title to the property under cultivation.

There are thousands of acres of valuable lands in many sections of the state.

CAR KILLS DEER

Blinded by Headlight it Charged into Trolley.

The killing of a healthy and sprightly doe in Caledonia park by a trolley was a most surprising occurrence on the foothills of the South Mountain. The animal was one of a herd of a half dozen gamboling in the silence and darkness of the Caledonia surroundings. The sudden appearance of the car, its noise and blinding headlight, threw the animals into a temporary panic. This doe dazed by the headlight of the car violently struck the body of the car with its head. The doe fell back on its haunches dead with a broken neck.

HALF DAY OFF IN EIGHT WEEKS

That is All the Time Allowed Fritz Hurd in Medical Corps now in France.

GETTYSBURG COLLEGE BOY

Does not Mind Long Hours. Tells of Wonderful Fortitude of Soldiers Long Ill.

Recent letters received by Mayor and Mrs. G. W. Hurd, of Williamsport, Md., from their son, Fritz D. Hurd, who is a member of Base Hospital Corps No. 10, "Somewhere in France", states that he has been made a nurse with increased pay.

Mr. Hurd has scores of friends in Gettysburg where he attended college for four years. He states that he received a letter from his father of the date of Aug. 13th in record time of a little over thirteen days, the shortest time, he says, of any letter that has been received at the camp. In contrast with this, Mr. Hurd says, he did not receive his mother's letter of Aug. 6th until two days after his father's letter reached him. He says there are dozen different places where a letter can be delayed enroute.

His letters in part are as follows:

I am now on night duty and will be until Nov. 1 with much nursing to do. The men on night duty sleep on cots and three to a tent. We are away from the day fellows on a nice green lawn, where it is quiet. We have heavy hob-nailed shoes, or boots with an iron rim around the heel. We need them over in this country. The army shoes do not last very long around here. Ten days ago we received more supplies and the boots.

A short time ago reinforcements of forty-seven orderlies and nine doctors from Philadelphia arrived here. They did not get to stay in England like we did.

I am feeling fine and the weather is splendid now. I pitched a game of base ball against the Canadians yesterday and it ended 5 to 5 in darkness. I had my first half day holiday to-day, the first in eight weeks. To-day I helped to unload some shoes, blankets and hats which just came from the States. The little railroad cars used over here are big enough to carry about two good auto carloads. While down town I bought some fine pears and gave one each to my patients. They appreciate such little things, as it is quite monotonous to be more or less seriously ill and have to look up at a ceiling all day anywhere from five to eighteen weeks. One man, who is very cheerful and is the life of the camp, has been in the hut for nearly 18 weeks.

Crider is getting along great. He also has received both promotions.

GERMAN-RUSSIAN NAVAL BATTLE

Slava Sunk by Teuton Gun Fire. German Ships Stood outside of Russian Range.

MOST OF CREW RESCUED

Thrilling Sea Fight between Ships of Two Navies. Antiquated Russian Boats at Disadvantage.

Petrograd, Oct. 19—A naval battle has occurred in the Gulf of Riga between the Russian and German battleships, the War Office announces. The Russian battleship Slava sank as the result of being hit several times beneath the water line. Nearly all the members of the crew were saved by Russian torpedo boats. The announcement follows:

"After depriving us of control of Irbe Channel the enemy at night penetrated the Gulf of Riga, where at dawn yesterday his naval forces were discovered by our patrol detachment, which was pressed back to Moon Sound by enemy cruisers and torpedo boats. Our ships of the line Grayhdanin and Slava and the cruiser Bayan, went out to meet the enemy in the Gulf of Riga and drove back his vanguard by their fire. They soon encountered the principal enemy fighting units and engaged them. Among the latter were two dreadnoughts of the Grosser Kurfuerst type (25,000 tons).

"During the battle the enemy adopted the tactics of firing at destroyers beyond the range of our guns, his artillery range being much superior to the artillery of our old ships of the line.

"In spite of the clearly manifested superiority of the enemy, our ships defended the entrance for a considerable time, and only severe damage caused by the fire of his dreadnoughts forced us to retire into the waters of the Moon Sound. As a result of several hits beneath the water-line, the Slava sank. Nearly all the crew were saved by our torpedo boats.

"During this engagement our coast batteries at the entrance to Moon Sound dispersed by their fire enemy torpedo boats which attempted to approach our ships. Afterward the fire of one of the enemy dreadnoughts was directed on those batteries, and they were put out of action in a short time.

"Another detachment of our naval forces in Moon Sound kept back fierce enemy attacks from the north in the rear of our combating forces. These enemy attempts did not succeed."

The Slava, built in 1903, was an old-type battleship of 13,516 tons, 397 feet in length, 76 feet beam and 26 feet draft. Her armament consisted of four 12-inch and twelve 6-inch guns, with twenty-four secondary battery guns and four torpedo tubes. Her speed was 18 knots. She had a complement of 825 men.

Three sister ships of the Slava—the Imperator Alexsandr III, the Borodino and the Knyaz Suvorov—were sunk during the Russo-Japanese War in the battle of the Sea of Japan, May, 1905. The Japanese captured a fourth sister ship, the Orel, which is now the Japanese Iwami.

SEND WHITE TO END COAL STRIKE

Fuel Administration Using Man of Great Power to Bring about Settlement.

Washington, Oct 19—The Fuel Administration last night sent John P. White, president of the United Mineworkers, of America, to the Middle Western coal fields, where thousands of miners are quitting work and threatening the nation's coal supply. This move came as a climax to 36 hours' discussion of government seizure and operation of the mines. If Mr. White, through his powerful union connections, is not able to get the miners back to work, it is believed that federal handling of the nation's fuel will follow at once.

Although the Fuel Administration is as optimistic as the gloomy outlook warrants, no effort is made to conceal the crisis. Dr. H. A. Garfield refused to add anything to his statement of Wednesday, in which he threatened to "take any steps necessary" if either miners or operators try to coerce the government into higher wages or higher prices.

Mr. White, before leaving on his mission of last resort, described the coal miners of the Middle West as simply "running wild." His admission that union officials appear to have lost control of their men was last night regarded as a serious omen. The United Mineworkers is regarded as one of the best organized and most powerful unions in existence. If the officials cannot handle these men, comment can the situation must indeed be critical.

DR. COOK WAS A MARKED MAN

Arctic Explorer and Others were to be Assassinated, Witness Tells Court.

Chicago, Oct. 19—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, and a crew of 19 sailors were among those marked for assassination by the leaders directing the alleged plot to foment a revolution in India to embarrass Great Britain during the war, according to testimony given by Sukupar Chatterji, a Hindu priest, in Judge Landis' court at yesterday's session of the trial of Gustav H. Jacobson, wealthy Chicago real estate dealer, and his three co-defendants charged with the conspiracy.

Wholesale murder and the kidnapping of numerous persons was part of the program outlined, the witness testified.

This part of the plot, Chatterji said, was revealed to him in Manila by George Paul Roehm, one of the defendants.

To Murder Explorers

"Boehm said that he had planned to kill Captain Cook and his crew, who were to make an expedition in the vicinity of the Himalaya Mountains", said the witness. "Boehm was to assume the name of Captain Cook and the other men in our party were to assume the names of the other sailors who were to be killed. I protested. It was Boehm's plan to go through India under the guise of an explorer and foment a revolt among the natives against Great Britain."

The witness came to this country in 1912 to study journalism, but later was induced to take part in the alleged plot by Gupta, one of the defendants. He told of meetings held in San Francisco in 1915 at which plans for the alleged plot were discussed and of going to Manila with the alleged conspirators. The witness later was arrested with others and brought back to this country for trial.

On cross-examination Chatterji admitted he had been imprisoned for six months in solitary confinement in India before he confessed and was brought here.

Paid by Von Papen

Thomas J. Tunney, acting captain of the New York Police Department, testified to an alleged confession made to him by Heramba Lal Gupta in New York, March 10, 1917, and his testimony was corroborated by George C. Barnett, a New York detective sergeant.

"He told me that Captain von Papen, the military attache of the German Embassy in the United States, paid him between $15,000 and $16,000 in a suite of offices in lower Broadway", said Tunney. "He said he received the money in six or seven payments and it was to be used in making a trip to the Orient. He said later he went to China and Japan and purchased firearms and ammunition for use in the revolution in India. Gupta told me that Von Papen said he would buy additional firearms and ammunition in the United States and ship it to the Orient by way of the South Seas. Gupta told me he returned to this country in June, 1916, after having been followed by detectives all over China and Japan. He said that while in Japan he was given protection on one occasion in the home of a high public official. He told me the headquarters of the conspiracy was in Berlin."

ANOTHER MUTINY IN GERMAN NAVY

Sailors Refuse to Serve on Submarines because of Bad Food and Ill Treatment.

THROW OFFICER INTO SEA

Austrian Crews also Revolt. Indications of More Trouble on the Way for Central Powers.

Amsterdam, Oct. 19—A mutiny among German sailors at the Belgian port of Ostend who refused to go on board submarines is reported by the Belgisch Dagblad. The newspaper says an officer was thrown into the sea and that 30 mutineers were removed in handcuffs to Bruges.

Washington, Oct. 19—Official diplomatic dispatches received here report mutinies in the Austrian Navy and clashes between Austrian sailors and crews of the German submarine fleet based at Pola, in which officers on both sides have been killed and who are said to have been in collision over a decision to change the base of the German flotilla. Despite the attempts of the Austrian Admiralty to suppress the news, it reached here, coming by way of Berne. The Austrian crews are said to have revolted under ill treatment of officers and bad food, while the clash with the German submarine crews was caused by the overbearing conduct of the latter.

The dispatches say the tension between the Austrian and German crews became so alarming that extraordinary measures were taken to prevent the recurrence of the fighting between them, which included the decision to move the German submarine flotilla from the Austrian base at Pola to another point further south on the Adriatic. The fighting between the two sets of crews is described as having been sanguinary.

This news of mutiny in the Austrian Navy, received in the capital to-day almost at the same time as the Amsterdam dispatches reporting further mutinies in the German Navy—this time among submarine crews—created a profound sensation among American naval officers and among officials who have been watching the situation with expectation since the first mutinies in the German fleet were reported a few days ago.

The first signs of mutiny in the German fleet were regarded as most significant, since, unlike the army, it has endured little of the hardship of campaigning. Dispatches from abroad, however, confirm the opinion of American naval officers that it probably was due, in part at least, to the drafting of seamen for submarine crews, a service which has come to hold terrors for the German seaman because of the inflexible British policy of never making any announcement whatever of the fate of captured or lost crews of the German submersibles. This suspense as to the fate of comrades who go out never to be heard of again was expected to undermine the morale of the navy.

Clashes between German and Austrian crews are regarded in naval circles here as adding much significance to the situation, particularly when considered in the light of the extreme situation of Austria, whose fighting forces are at the point of exhaustion.

ANARCHY SPREADS THROUGH RUSSIA

Police Search for 18,000 Criminals. No One Cares about Anything.

London, Oct. 19—The Times devotes a column to a dispatch from its Petrograd correspondent describing "the state of anarchy spreading throughout the Russian provinces."

The dispatch mentions agrarian disorders in the districts of Mohiley and Saratov; rioting in Kharkov, resulting in the arrest of 50 ringleaders; street fighting in Kursk and illicit distilling at Veronesh, which led to wholesale drunkenness and the severing of communication between Tashkent, Turkestan and Petrograd.

"In Petrograd," the correspondent adds, "conditions are little better with the police searching for 18,000 criminals. Questionable resorts and night clubs are multiplying. Gambling is enormously on the increase, at one resort the minimum stake being 20,000 rubles. There are many accidents in the streets from motor-cars colliding and tram cars being derailed. Robberies are increasing. In fact, no one seems to care about anything."

The government, he says, is combating the malady through the assistance of district committees.

WORKS FOR LIBERTY LOAN

A striking example of the value of women in helping America in the great fight is Miss Antoinette Funk, a member of the woman's committee of the council of national defense.

The photograph shows her hard at work in her office in the treasury building where she is doing wonderful work in the interests of the Liberty loan. She is executive vice-chairman of the women's Liberty loan committee, of which Mrs. McAdoo is the chairman. She was asked to take the post by Secretary McAdoo because of her powers of logical appeal, her ability as a speaker and her untiring activity in any work connected with the great cause for which America is fighting.

HOURLESS WINS WITH NEW JOCKEY

Robinson Displaces Butwell at Last Moment. Pilots Star to Victory.

Baltimore, Oct. 19—August Belmont's three-year-old Hourless is the champion running racehorse of the world.

He won his title at the Laurel track yesterday afternoon by outrunning Omar Khayyam by a length over a course of a mile and a quarter.

The winning of the race was a great achievement in itself, for Omar Khayyam is reckoned among the top-notch horses of the world. The achievement, however, takes on greater splendor because Hourless was ridden by jockey Frankie Robinson, who was a stranger to the magnificent mount. At the last moment, just before the horses left the paddock, S. C. Hildreth, who trained Hourless, who knows his every whim and fancy, became dissatisfied with Butwell, Mr. Belmont's favorite jockey, who had been picked to pilot the colt to victory. Butwell had not ridden a Belmont entry in a race early in the afternoon to the satisfaction of the trainer. Mr. Hildreth was not willing, however to make the change on his own responsibility. In the absence of August Belmont, who sailed on Wednesday for Europe, Mr. Hildreth consulted his brother, O. H. P. Belmont, who ordered a change in jockeys. Robinson, who took Butwell's place in the saddle, is attached to Henry Payne Whitney's stables.

U-BOAT FOR LOAN

Use Captured Submarine to Stimulate Bond Subscriptions.

New York, Oct. 19—A German submarine captured by the British will soon be on view in New York. It arrived in three sections in the hold of an English steamship Wednesday and was unloaded Tuesday to be assembled in Central Park as an exhibit to aid the Liberty Loan drive.

The Liberty Loan Committee announced that the submarine was the U C-5 of the mine-laying type, caught laying mines in the North Sea by a British destroyer in April, 1916. It was obtained by the committee through the courtesy of the British government and the co-operation of Lord Northcliffe, head of the British Commission in the United States. The craft is 110 feet long, beam, 11 feet, and has a displacement of 200 tons. She has a capacity and machinery for laying 12 mines. She carries no guns or torpedo tubes.

The craft when placed in Central Park will be used as a Liberty Loan Bond-selling booth, and only those who have bought a bond will be allowed to inspect the craft.

WILL PROSECUTE LOAN PLOTTERS

Secretary McAdoo Loses no Time in Smashing this Pro-German Scheme.

Washington, Oct. 19—The government yesterday set in motion the machinery to apprehend and punish pro-German workers who have started an organized campaign in more than a dozen states to defeat the Liberty Loan.

By telegraph from Salt Lake City Secretary McAdoo authorized the issuance of a statement here calling upon all banks upon which German pressure has been brought to bear in an effort to induce them not to aid the loan to report the circumstances to him, and promising to prosecute to the limit of the law the "disloyal and traitorous persons" making such attempts at intimidation.

Department of Justice officials also began an investigation into the workings of the alleged conspirators with a view to prosecutions, where justified, under the espionage and other laws dealing with sedition and attempts to thwart the government's war purposes.

The nation's answer to the abortive efforts of the pro-German campaign was the greatest single day's subscriptions since the campaign started. Officials estimate that nearly $1,750,000,000 of the loan has been subscribed and heavy sales are reported in prospect for the closing days of the drive.

Reports to the Treasury from many sections indicate that the alleged plot has not only failed, but has resulted in stimulating subscriptions where the conspirators were most active.

TAKE CARGOES

These Submarines Large Enough to Take Supplies.

(By Telegraph)

Washington, Oct. 19—The new type of German U-boats are operating several hundred miles from the beaten track of the danger zone and taking heavy cargoes of supplies, according to authoritative reports received here. They travel in pairs, stop a supply ship, take off the cargo which is stored in the large holds of the undersea craft, and then sink the attacked ship without trace.

IN MEMORIAM

It is one year to-day, October 19, 1917, since we saw our dear son's face,
And yet how short it seems and what a sad year it was.
I never, never will forget that dear boy of ours,
Oh, how I miss him no one knows but mother.
Oh, how many sad and lonely hours I spent
Since my dear Bert has gone to heaven to dwell.

By his mother.

Four years ago, October 10, 1913, I buried a dear mother,
One I loved so dear,
How can I live without my dear ones,
In this cold world.

Don't object to the gentlemanly hunter going through his fields and in his woodlands in search of game, but it's the other kind of sportsman the land owner has to guard against—the one who tears down fences, shoots around buildings, tramples newly seeded ground and so on.

Guard against these things by posting your land with our trespass signs. Cardboard signs, six for 25 cents, muslin signs 10 cents each or three for 25 cents. Add three cents for postage if you want them mailed.

And another good way to keep the hunter from starting for your place is to put your name in our trespass list. 50 cents for the entire season.

NOW THE "S WALK"

Said to Be "Dreadfully Simple" After One Gets On to It.

Fashion setters among Los Angeles' colony of the silent drama are transforming the historic "debutante slouch" into the human letter "S" walk, and to those who have not acquired the new promenade fashion there is a struggle to attain the correct movement.

The bustle, the time-honored article of feminine adornment, has been shifted to the front to give a sort of concave appearance above and convex below, and the girls say that the rest is "dreadfully simple" after one gets on to it.

Many well-known local actresses have taken up this style, but are hard put for a name for it. Men, however, in whose realm manly beauty is supposed to consist of broad chest and lean hips, are not expected to copy.

HOSPITAL IS COSMOPOLITAN

Founded by American, Has British Personnel, French Administration.

Just outside the town of Nevers there is a hospital that is French in its administration, English in its personnel and American by the generosity that supports it and makes it a model institution. It was started in 1914 by Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, wife of the counselor of the American embassy, who was instrumental in organizing eleven similar establishments.

Among the nurses' assistants is Princess Louise of Battenberg—who through a decision of King George regarding the modification of names of German origin, became Lady Louise Mountbatten. She is the daughter of Prince Louis of Battenberg, who was first lord of the British admiralty when the war began.

Lady Louise Mountbatten is the first to take hold of the most thankless and prosaic duties.

SON RETURNS

Sitting at the window of a darkened parlor, brooding over the misfortune of her husband, who had fractured two ribs, and expecting a messenger announcing the death of her son, Paul R. Raub, of fever in Argentine, Mrs. W. Grant Raub, of Red Lion, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock was startled to see her son descend from a trolley car and approach the house. He was only five hours behind a telegram to his parents stating that he was dying of fever in Argentine, where he was employed in the consular service. Mrs. Raub regained her composure somewhat, but her welcome to her son was almost hysterical, so much had the events of the day unstrung her nerves.

In the morning her husband had fallen a distance of 35 feet from a scaffold at the home of J. A. Miller, and was seriously injured. At 3 p. m., while ministering to him, a telegram was received stating her son in Argentine had fever, and the nature of the message was such as to leave no hope on Mrs. Raub's part for his recovery. It was while her husband had finally begun to rest comfortably and she gained a respite that she went to the parlor to think of her son and to look for the message of his death, that he appeared.

Young Raub had the fever four months ago. At that time he requested a telegram be sent his parents. The message received was dated Harrisburg. Raub will not return to Argentine, not being pleased with his experience. There were 17 men, whom he describes as "rough necks", working in the same building, and he states that although he was receiving $1,800 per year, he will not go back, "even if they made it $1,800 a week.

Charles and Henry Auchinbaugh are back at their home after a vain attempt to get into the United States army. The two boys are twins, 15 years old, and students in the Chambersburg high school. With two other companions, Robert Schellhaz, high school student, and Clarence Walk, graduate of Girard College, both under 18 years, the Auchinbaugh twins, representing themselves as of army age, enlisted in the cavalry at the local recruiting office. The four youths were sent to Harrisburg for final examination, but the father, C. E. Auchinbaugh, learned of their escapade and wired the Harrisburg police to intercept them. They were brought back by a constable.

U. S. IS INDEPENDENT OF GERMAN CHEMICALS

Advance in Three Years Equivalent to Progress of Germany in Fifty Years.

By far the largest and most complete exhibition of its kind ever held in the world is open to the public in New York at the Grand Central palace. It is the third annual exposition of chemical industries. In the exposition at the palace is presented the greatest collection of exhibits of chemical industries ever made. It really represents the lifting of the veil of mystery that has heretofore surrounded the chemist's work, and the disclosure of the secrets of the manufacture of gunpowder, paper and pulp, asphalt, fertilizer, dyestuffs and numerous other products of the chemist's ingenuity.

To a large extent the European war is responsible for the exposition, which represents the efforts that have been made to meet emergencies resulting from the lack of products formerly shipped to this country from foreign laboratories. That the American chemist has succeeded in effectively producing some of the things for which several years ago we looked to the European markets is now generally granted. The displays at the palace emphasize this fact. During the last three years leading chemists and scientists declare, this country has made advances in chemical industries equivalent to the progress made in Germany in fifty years, and America, it can now be said, is absolutely independent of foreign countries in this field.

OLD WOMAN IS KILLED

Lived for Years in a Place Built for Chickens.

J. K. Ewing, humane officer of East St. Louis, and Mrs. Jane Law, truant officer, recently asked County Judge Messick for an order to commit Mrs. Anstea Latieur, eighty-five years old, to an asylum or home. This action was taken after it was learned that until recently Mrs. Thompson lived in a shed in the rear of the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Inez Thompson, at No. 1227 North Forty-ninth street. A part of the shed was used as a chicken house.

Since fire threatened the shed last Monday, Mrs. Latieur has lived in her granddaughter's kitchen. Mrs. Thompson told Ewing her grandmother was feeble and unable to walk and had been satisfied with her quarters in the shed.

OUR ATTENDANCE WAS THE LOWEST

Official Figures on Return from Blue Ridge League Put Gettysburg Last.

TREASURER HAS REPORT

Hagerstown Ranked First, while the Maroons Drew Largest Crowds at Home Towns.

Gettysburg ranked lowest from the standpoint of receipts for the Blue Ridge League, according to the report of Treasurer Max von Schlegell. The Chambersburg-Cumberland receipts were nearly the highest in the league, being next to Hagerstown, which stood first. And this in spite of the fact that Cumberland had the poorest lot of ball tossers in the Blue Ridge League during the past season.

Approximately $40,000 was taken in at the games throughout the league during the 1917 season. About $26,368 was taken in at the gates, and this does not include receipts from the grandstand, privileges, etc., which would total probably $13,000 to $14,000 more.

The league's expenses were $2,804,59, of which $1,920.53 was paid for umpires.

Treasurer von Schlegell's report follows:

Receipts from regular games—10 per cent from Hagerstown, $588.30; 10 per cent from Chambersburg-Cumberland, $498.82; 10 per cent from Martinsburg, $312.54; 10 per cent from Hanover, $298.81; 10 per cent from Frederick, $264.37; 10 per cent from Gettysburg, $171.87.

Opening and holiday games—From Hagerstown, $157.10; Chambersburg-Cumberland, $109.58; Martinsburg, $71.07; Hanover, $67.14; Frederick, $59.33; Gettysburg, $37.77.

From other sources—Adjustments of errors, $11.14; fines, $388.25; forfeits from clubs, $3,300.00; interest on forfeits, $38,94. Total receipts, $6,375.13.

Expenses—For umpires and subs, $1,920.53; for scorers (not complete), $262.00; miscellaneous, $172.06; secretary to president, $250; secretary to treasurer, $50; fine paid Cumberland account Gettysburg, $150. Total expenses, $2,804.59.

Refund to clubs—Martinsburg, $596.54; Hanover, $596.44; Hagerstown, $596.51; Cumberland, $620.95; Gettysburg, $591.90; Frederick, $512,46; cash in bank, $55,74.

The difference in the refund to the clubs was caused by various adjustments because of errors in paying the 10 per cent into the club treasury, failure to pay, etc.

GREATEST SHEEP PENS

Gigantic Pens at Denver Have Capacity of 350,000 Head.

Occupying a floor space of more than eight acres, Denver has opened the largest sheep sheds in the world. The only exercises dedicating the immense structure was the "turning in" of nearly 35,000 sheep into the pens on the upper and lower decks.

The building is double decked, and constructed so that other decks can be added if required. At present the shed has a capacity of 350,000 head. It is of solid concrete, reinforced by steel; is 490 feet long and 380 feet wide.

The structure cost $150,000.

Treat Catarrh by Nature's Own Method—Every Breath of Hyomei Brings Relief.

Nearly everyone who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day, treat yourself successfully.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but little and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle is not enough, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for a small sum. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Remember, that if Hyomei does not help you, People's Drug Store will refund your money.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back that natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does is so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

TO OUR READERS

The Gettysburg Times takes absolutely no part in politics, being neutral on all such matters. Anything that appears in our general news columns, concerning state or national politics, is furnished us by The American Press Association, a concern which gives the same news to Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, or Socialist papers and which is strictly non-partisan.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SERVICE

This week The Gettysburg Times completes the first fifteen years of its existence and will celebrate its sixteenth birthday.

The paper was founded under the name of "Progress" on October 18, 1902, and after several years was finally given the name it now bears.

Rough sailing was encountered during the early stages of its voyage on the journalistic sea, but it weathered them all.

The Times now enjoys what is possibly the largest percentage of patronage of any daily newspaper published in a town of this size.

In addition it bears the proud distinction of being one of the best three newspapers published in towns of the 4500 class in the United States.

Believing that its field is that of presenting the news accurately and fairly, it has earned the confidence of its readers.

Avoiding the publication of much news of a harmful character, and trying to keep its columns clean and dignified, while newsy and interesting, it has endeavored to adhere to worth-while ideals.

That its readers approve of its policy is evidenced by their growing numbers and continued support.

That its advertisers realize the thoroughness with which it covers this territory is shown by the constantly increasing patronage.

Sharing in the credit for these accomplishments are a large proportion of the readers of The Times who regard the paper as their own, as an institution in which they have a direct interest.

It is this feeling that enables us to continue the publication of a daily of this character, for a large portion of the news it contains is contributed voluntarily and without any thought of compensation by our subscribers.

And most active of all these news-gatherers are the members of our large corps of correspondents in the various county towns and villages. Without their aid we would be unable to present the news quickly and reliably.

To readers, to advertisers, to correspondents, and to all our friends The Gettysburg Times extends its sincere thanks for their past interest and the hope that this interest may continue for years to come.

ALLIES PREPARE FOR THE WINTER

Warm Clothing Being Rushed From Factory and Home to Men in Trenches.

BIG MOVES NOT LOOKED FOR

Short, Sharp Blows at Selected Points During Fine Spells, With Occasional Airplane Raids To Be Order of Day for Winter.

Paris.—Preparations for the fourth winter campaign on the western front are already in full swing. The summer campaign is over, and while both the English and French may be expected to make a few big drives, it is not anticipated that the beginning of winter, for military purposes, will see any radical alteration in the war map of France and Flanders.

Millions of sweaters, socks, paper suits, rubber Wellington boots, head wraps, mufflers, gloves and mittens are beginning to flow out from factory and home to the French poilus and British Tommies, hundreds of thousands of whom are facing their fourth winter period in the trenches. The comfort of the fighting man is so carefully studied now, after three years' experience, that nothing will be overlooked to make the coming harsh trial bearable.

Practically all the way from Nieuport to Verdun the armies are in quarters totally different from those they occupied last winter; with the exception of one or two stretches — as around La Bassee and the Argonne—the French and British are stationed in captured German lines. Throughout the spring and summer the men have shown little inclination to dig, feeling that in view of the possibility of a further move forward, just enough shelter was good enough for the time being. Turning over earth has never appealed to any infantry in this war, but necessity is likely to force them to do a lot of it in order to provide themselves with snug and well-drained trenches for the winter.

Little Change in Line.

Until next spring the western line is not likely to vary to any great extent, unless the totally unexpected happens. High winds, morning and evening mists, snow flurries and rain will limit the usefulness of the airplane and diminish the enormous help it gives nowadays in every big offensive. The machines are capable of performing wonders in any weather short of a hurricane, and there will be plenty of aerial activity, especially bombing raids, right through the worst months; but poor visibility will make co-operation with the gun batteries difficult, the more so as the Germans' latest type of "Archibald," or anti-aircraft gun, enforces respect and compels pilots to fly high.

In these circumstances big sweeping moves are not looked for, but rather a repetition on a more intensive scale of last winter's tactics. Short, sharp blows at selected points during fine spells, a continual battering on wide fronts by concentrated gun fire lengthening out to close-up rest stations, hundreds of airplanes swarming out to attack encampments, aviation sheds, munition dumps and lines of communication—these will be the regular order of the day throughout the winter. The enemy will be kept on the jump all the time, great gaps will be torn in his dwindling reserves and every possible step taken, first to prevent his ever again assuming the initiative upon the western front, and, secondly, to weaken him irreparably for the final knockout blow in 1918.

The part the American contingents will play in the winter's activity is the closest of all military secrets at this time. There is nothing that Hindenburg is burning to know so much as just what Pershing's plans are, and there is nothing that Pershing is more bent upon doing than keeping the slightest hint from Hindenburg.

Prudence the Motto.

But while no light can be shed at this stage upon the plans of the American commander in chief, I am able to give this assurance, that prudence is his motto, that he will never consent to play to the gallery as even the best generals are sometimes tempted to do. It is Haig's great merit that he bides his time and only strikes when he is able to strike in real earnest. Pershing resembles the British leader in this respect, and Europe has had enough war experience to know that these are the men who get the real results at the least possible cost in lives, and that though they have little to show on the war map, they are steadily, persistently, relentlessly wearing down the toughest foe that ever took the field.

What can be said, however, without giving any information to the enemy is that here in France Americans will co-operate throughout the winter in the gigantic task of preparing for the death blow. The details cannot be discussed, but the ground has been cleared for a colossal amount of work, embracing all branches that go to make for the efficient operation of a modern war machine, and a big share will be taken over during the bad weather by Americans, not only in the United States, but also in France. And this quite aside from the training of the fighting men and the education of the officers in the latest phases of warfare.

The result of all this activity will be that next spring the entente allies will possess a supereminent war machine, gunned, manned and equipped in an unprecedentedly complete and magnificent manner. It was correct to say last winter that in 1917 the entente allies would develop a striking force which could not be exceeded in 1918 if the war continued. But at that time the intervention of the United States was only a dim possibility; the revolution in Russia and the collapse of her army were foreseen by nobody.

Tough Problem for Enemy.

As the situation stands at present, with the United States adding her mighty power to the common lot, and with a still unextinguished hope that the Muscovites may be brought back to their old aggressive fighting, men belonging to the inner circles of Europe affirm their belief that the entente allies will be able to confront Hindenburg with a far harsher problem in 1918 than they could have hoped to put up to him in 1917.

Next spring the British army will still be at top strength, for in the past summer Haig has put forth nothing like his maximum effort, and in consequence has suffered losses far below the figures anticipated at the British war office. When it was seen that the Russian army must drop out of all offensive plans this summer and that Germany would be able to develop an unexpected strength upon the western front, the Franco-British policy naturally became more conservative. The building up of the American armies has confirmed the wisdom of this course, which looks to the accumulation of an irresistible power before the last continuous, annihilating blows are delivered upon all possible fronts.

SCORNED, MAKES SPY CHARGE

Widow Proves Undoing of Kampman, Formerly in German Consulate in Chicago.

Los Angeles.—A scorned woman and an elderly one at that—proved the undoing of Dr. Maximilian Kampman, aged only twenty-eight, formerly of the German consulate in Chicago, who was arrested here on a presidential warrant as a German spy. At least so declared Dr. A. S. Ash of Los Angeles. "A year and a half ago Doctor Kampman was treating a widow," said Doctor Ash. "He took a great deal of interest in trying to restore her health—so much so that it seemed she became infatuated with him. He tried to wave her aside, but in vain."

Opportune Arrival.

TO FEED CAPTIVE AMERICANS

Those Taken Prisoners of War Will Not Have to Depend on Rations Furnished by Germany.

Washington.—American prisoners of war in Germany will be furnished enough food for their subsisted independently of rations provided them by the Germans.

The American Red Cross, through arrangements with the British General Prisoners of War Committee, is doing this for the American prisoners in Germany, of whom there are now 101, and a committee of the American Red Cross has been established at Berne, Switzerland, to do this work in the future. This committee will work directly under the American Red Cross and will take over all the work of provisioning American soldiers and sailors who may be held in Germany.

The "denarius," translated "penny," in each of the four gospels was the principal silver coin of the Roman commonwealth. From the parable of the laborers in the vineyard it would seem that a denarius was the ordinary pay for a day's labor (Math. 20:2-13).

BIGGEST JOB ON RECORD

Army Cantonments Cost $150,000,000—Immense Amount of Material Used.

Washington.—The completion of the sixteen cantonments for the National army is one of the greatest construction jobs ever undertaken by any government, and within three months the government has expended approximately $150,000,000 upon this work, whereas the largest amount appropriated in any one year for the Panama canal was $46,000,000.

Within sixty days 190 sawmills in all parts of the country shipped more than 500,000,000 feet of lumber to the cantonment sites. Altogether 93,000 kegs of nails were used; there were installed 140,000 doors and 686,000 sash, while nearly 30,000,000 square feet of wall board was used for inside sheathing.

When paved streets, telephones, fire protection, electric lights, water supply and sewage disposal are added to this undertaking, some idea may be had as to the wonderful piece of work done in record-breaking time in providing comfortable quarters for the National army.

Easy & Practical Home Dress Making Lessons

Prepared Specially for This Newspaper By Pictorial Review

Coat of Moth Brown Velours.

Easy of line and youthful in effect is this coat of moth brown velours. It has a cape, pockets and cuffs of self-material.

There are very definite innovations in styles in topcoats for Fall and Winter. Lines are easy, youthful and the trimming is chiefly the designing rather than the applied touch. Here is an exceptionally stylish model without one note of contrasting decoration. It is carried out in moth brown velours and may be made with or without the circular cape. The front may be closed high at the neck or turned back to form pointed revers. Turn-back cuffs finish the one-piece sleeves.

The home dressmaker will find it a very simple matter to cut the coat if the guide is followed precisely. The arrangement of each of the ten pieces of the pattern is given, showing how to avoid mistakes and waste of material. After the velours is folded and placed on the cutting table, the collar and cape sections are laid into position, which is directly on the lengthwise fold. To the upper right of the cape, with large "O" perforations resting on a lengthwise thread, comes the sleeve. Below the sleeve is the facing, with large "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread. To the upper right of the facing are the font, and to the right of the front the cuff and pockets, all with large "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread. There remain now only the back and the belt to be placed and these are laid on the lengthwise fold of material.

Any desired changes may be rung in upon the pattern. For instance, any of the pockets may be omitted and the cape made in open effect at the back. In medium size the model requires 4¾ yards 54-inch material. Serge, cheviot and velvet make up this design very acceptably also.

Pictorial Review Coat No. 7374. Sizes, 34 to 46 inches bust. Price, 25 cents.

TO OUR READERS

The Gettysburg Times takes absolutely no part in politics, being neutral on all such matters. Anything that appears in our general news columns, concerning state or national politics, is furnished us by The American Press Association, a concern which gives the same news to Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, or Socialist papers and which is strictly non-partisan.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SERVICE

This week The Gettysburg Times completes the first fifteen years of its existence and will celebrate its sixteenth birthday.

The paper was founded under the name of "Progress" on October 18, 1902, and after several years was finally given the name it now bears.

Rough sailing was encountered during the early stages of its voyage on the journalistic sea, but it weathered them all.

The Times now enjoys what is possibly the largest percentage of patronage of any daily newspaper published in a town of this size.

In addition it bears the proud distinction of being one of the best three newspapers published in towns of the 4500 class in the United States.

Believing that its field is that of presenting the news accurately and fairly, it has earned the confidence of its readers.

Avoiding the publication of much news of a harmful character, and trying to keep its columns clean and dignified, while newsy and interesting, it has endeavored to adhere to worth-while ideals.

That its readers approve of its policy is evidenced by their growing numbers and continued support.

That its advertisers realize the thoroughness with which it covers this territory is shown by the constantly increasing patronage.

Sharing in the credit for these accomplishments are a large proportion of the readers of The Times who regard the paper as their own, as an institution in which they have a direct interest.

It is this feeling that enables us to continue the publication of a daily of this character, for a large portion of the news it contains is contributed voluntarily and without any thought of compensation by our subscribers.

And most active of all these news-gatherers are the members of our large corps of correspondents in the various county towns and villages. Without their aid we would be unable to present the news quickly and reliably.

To readers, to advertisers, to correspondents, and to all our friends The Gettysburg Times extends its sincere thanks for their past interest and the hope that this interest may continue for years to come.

ALLIES PREPARE FOR THE WINTER

Warm Clothing Being Rushed From Factory and Home to Men in Trenches.

BIG MOVES NOT LOOKED FOR

Short, Sharp Blows at Selected Points During Fine Spells, With Occasional Airplane Raids To Be Order of Day for Winter.

Paris.—Preparations for the fourth winter campaign on the western front are already in full swing. The summer campaign is over, and while both the English and French may be expected to make a few big drives, it is not anticipated that the beginning of winter, for military purposes, will see any radical alteration in the war map of France and Flanders.

Millions of sweaters, socks, paper suits, rubber Wellington boots, head wraps, mufflers, gloves and mittens are beginning to flow out from factory and home to the French poilus and British Tommies, hundreds of thousands of whom are facing their fourth winter period in the trenches. The comfort of the fighting man is so carefully studied now, after three years' experience, that nothing will be overlooked to make the coming harsh trial bearable.

Practically all the way from Nieuport to Verdun the armies are in quarters totally different from those they occupied last winter; with the exception of one or two stretches — as around La Bassee and the Argonne—the French and British are stationed in captured German lines. Throughout the spring and summer the men have shown little inclination to dig, feeling that in view of the possibility of a further move forward, just enough shelter was good enough for the time being. Turning over earth has never appealed to any infantry in this war, but necessity is likely to force them to do a lot of it in order to provide themselves with snug and well-drained trenches for the winter.

Little Change in Line.

Until next spring the western line is not likely to vary to any great extent, unless the totally unexpected happens. High winds, morning and evening mists, snow flurries and rain will limit the usefulness of the airplane and diminish the enormous help it gives nowadays in every big offensive. The machines are capable of performing wonders in any weather short of a hurricane, and there will be plenty of aerial activity, especially bombing raids, right through the worst months; but poor visibility will make co-operation with the gun batteries difficult, the more so as the Germans' latest type of "Archibald," or anti-aircraft gun, enforces respect and compels pilots to fly high.

In these circumstances big sweeping moves are not looked for, but rather a repetition on a more intensive scale of last winter's tactics. Short, sharp blows at selected points during fine spells, a continual battering on wide fronts by concentrated gun fire lengthening out to close-up rest stations, hundreds of airplanes swarming out to attack encampments, aviation sheds, munition dumps and lines of communication—these will be the regular order of the day throughout the winter. The enemy will be kept on the jump all the time, great gaps will be torn in his dwindling reserves and every possible step taken, first to prevent his ever again assuming the initiative upon the western front, and, secondly, to weaken him irreparably for the final knockout blow in 1918.

The part the American contingents will play in the winter's activity is the closest of all military secrets at this time. There is nothing that Hindenburg is burning to know so much as just what Pershing's plans are, and there is nothing that Pershing is more bent upon doing than keeping the slightest hint from Hindenburg.

Prudence the Motto.

But while no light can be shed at this stage upon the plans of the American commander in chief, I am able to give this assurance, that prudence is his motto, that he will never consent to play to the gallery as even the best generals are sometimes tempted to do. It is Haig's great merit that he bides his time and only strikes when he is able to strike in real earnest. Pershing resembles the British leader in this respect, and Europe has had enough war experience to know that these are the men who get the real results at the least possible cost in lives, and that though they have little to show on the war map, they are steadily, persistently, relentlessly wearing down the toughest foe that ever took the field.

What can be said, however, without giving any information to the enemy is that here in France Americans will co-operate throughout the winter in the gigantic task of preparing for the death blow. The details cannot be discussed, but the ground has been cleared for a colossal amount of work, embracing all branches that go to make for the efficient operation of a modern war machine, and a big share will be taken over during the bad weather by Americans, not only in the United States, but also in France. And this quite aside from the training of the fighting men and the education of the officers in the latest phases of warfare.

The result of all this activity will be that next spring the entente allies will possess a supereminent war machine, gunned, manned and equipped in an unprecedentedly complete and magnificent manner. It was correct to say last winter that in 1917 the entente allies would develop a striking force which could not be exceeded in 1918 if the war continued. But at that time the intervention of the United States was only a dim possibility; the revolution in Russia and the collapse of her army were foreseen by nobody.

Tough Problem for Enemy.

As the situation stands at present, with the United States adding her mighty power to the common lot, and with a still unextinguished hope that the Muscovites may be brought back to their old aggressive fighting, men belonging to the inner circles of Europe affirm their belief that the entente allies will be able to confront Hindenburg with a far harsher problem in 1918 than they could have hoped to put up to him in 1917.

Next spring the British army will still be at top strength, for in the past summer Haig has put forth nothing like his maximum effort, and in consequence has suffered losses far below the figures anticipated at the British war office. When it was seen that the Russian army must drop out of all offensive plans this summer and that Germany would be able to develop an unexpected strength upon the western front, the Franco-British policy naturally became more conservative. The building up of the American armies has confirmed the wisdom of this course, which looks to the accumulation of an irresistible power before the last continuous, annihilating blows are delivered upon all possible fronts.

SCORNED, MAKES SPY CHARGE

Widow Proves Undoing of Kampman, Formerly in German Consulate in Chicago.

Los Angeles.—A scorned woman and an elderly one at that—proved the undoing of Dr. Maximilian Kampman, aged only twenty-eight, formerly of the German consulate in Chicago, who was arrested here on a presidential warrant as a German spy. At least so declared Dr. A. S. Ash of Los Angeles. "A year and a half ago Doctor Kampman was treating a widow," said Doctor Ash. "He took a great deal of interest in trying to restore her health—so much so that it seemed she became infatuated with him. He tried to wave her aside, but in vain."

Opportune Arrival.

TO FEED CAPTIVE AMERICANS

Those Taken Prisoners of War Will Not Have to Depend on Rations Furnished by Germany.

Washington.—American prisoners of war in Germany will be furnished enough food for their subsistence independently of rations provided them by the Germans.

The American Red Cross, through arrangements with the British General Prisoners of War Committee, is doing this for the American prisoners in Germany, of whom there are now 101, and a committee of the American Red Cross has been established at Berne, Switzerland, to do this work in the future. This committee will work directly under the American Red Cross and will take over all the work of provisioning American soldiers and sailors who may be held in Germany.

BIGGEST JOB ON RECORD

Army Cantonments Cost $150,000,000—Immense Amount of Material Used.

Washington.—The completion of the sixteen cantonments for the National army is one of the greatest construction jobs ever undertaken by any government, and within three months the government has expended approximately $150,000,000 upon this work, whereas the largest amount appropriated in any one year for the Panama canal was $46,000,000.

Within sixty days 190 sawmills in all parts of the country shipped more than 500,000,000 feet of lumber to the cantonment sites. Altogether 93,000 kegs of nails were used; there were installed 140,000 doors and 686,000 sash, while nearly 30,000,000 square feet of wall board was used for inside sheathing.

When paved streets, telephones, fire protection, electric lights, water supply and sewage disposal are added to this undertaking, some idea may be had as to the wonderful piece of work done in record-breaking time in providing comfortable quarters for the National army.

Be careful to use the right kerosene, though. Ordinary kerosene won't do! The kind to look for and insist on getting is called Rayolight Oil. Highly refined and perfectly purified, it burns without sputter or charring the wick. Buy it where you see the sign: "Atlantic Rayolight Oil for Sale Here."

Look up the store that sells Perfection Oil Heaters. They are reasonably priced—$4.50 to $8.50.

Easy & Practical Home Dress Making Lessons

Prepared Specially for This Newspaper

By Pictorial Review

Coat of Moth Brown Velours.

Easy of line and youthful in effect is this coat of moth brown velours. It has a cape, pockets and cuffs of self-material.

There are very definite innovations in styles in topcoats for Fall and Winter. Lines are easy, youthful and the trimming is chiefly the designing rather than the applied touch. Here is an exceptionally stylish model without one note of contrasting decoration. It is carried out in moth brown velours and may be made with or without the circular cape. The front may be closed high at the neck or turned back to form pointed revers. Turn-back cuffs finish the one-piece sleeves.

The home dressmaker will find it a very simple matter to cut the coat if the guide is followed precisely. The arrangement of each of the ten pieces of the pattern is given, showing how to avoid mistakes and waste of material. After the velours is folded and placed on the cutting table, the collar and cape sections are laid into position, which is directly on the lengthwise fold. To the upper right of the cape, with large "O" perforations resting on a lengthwise thread, comes the sleeve. Below the sleeve is the facing, with large "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread. To the upper right of the facing are the font, and to the right of the front the cuff and pockets, all with large "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread. There remain now only the back and the belt to be placed and these are laid on the lengthwise fold of material.

Any desired changes may be rung in upon the pattern. For instance, any of the pockets may be omitted and the cape made in open effect at the back. In medium size the model requires 4¾ yards 54-inch material. Serge, cheviot and velvet make up this design very acceptably also.

Pictorial Review Coat No. 7374. Sizes, 34 to 46 inches bust. Price, 25 cents.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

The Results Of a Blunder

By EDWARD STEWART

"It's too bad."

"I am dreadfully sorry, my dear young lady. It could not be helped."

"I have been counting on this story to give me a literary reputation. You have ruined all these hopes."

This was ridiculous. The story was below the average.

The truth is that Howkins, the editor and proprietor of the magazine, had no business to go away and leave me, a scatter brained youngster, in full control. I had hosts of friends, and my mind was absorbed with youthful pleasures. As to my work at the editorial rooms, Howkins had arranged everything before his departure, so that there was nothing to do but take the copy for the next issue out of his desk and send it to the composing room. Among other copy I sent up a story called "What's It All About?" by Miss Mildred Eaton. I was locking my desk one Friday afternoon preparatory to going into the country till the following Tuesday when a message came down from the composing room that the story "What's It All About?" was incomplete. I called for the copy and found the last two chapters missing.

Here was a pretty kettle of fish. I ransacked the office without success; sent for the author and was informed that she had gone on a trip, no one knew where. What was I to do? Give up my outing to search for a needle in a haystack? Not I. My resolution was taken. It was then 2 o'clock. By 4 I could skim the manuscript, by 6 I could write the last chapters and be ready for the 7 o'clock train instead of the 3 o'clock, as I had intended.

Had I taken more time and put my mind on my work instead of dwelling on the outing I was to have, afraid all the while that I would miss the train—the last till the next morning—I might have done fairly well. As it was I made a frightful mess of the job. I mistook the hero for the villain and brought the story to a close by putting in his mouth a high flown, virtuous enunciation. The heroine I made to take a back seat, but fortunately on the same bench with the hero. I finished the work at half past 6, gave it to a composing room messenger who was waiting for it and made a dash for the train.

Well, the story came out, and with it came the author, a pretty girl of twenty, who sought me in my office with tears in her eyes. Had she stormed I could have stood up against her manfully. As it was, I could only pretend to weep, not at the position my blunder had placed me, but that I should have ruined her hopes of literary fame. I told her that I seriously meditated drowning myself. Since I made the threat with my head buried in my arms, both head and arms resting on my desk, my whole body shaking convulsively, she feared I would carry it out. When she raised my face with her own soft hands and I looked into her tear dimmed but forgiving eyes, I was filled with shame.

"My dear Miss Eaton," I sobbed, "let us hope that out of this misfortune may come some reparation for you which, taken at the flood, will lead to fortune. I am one of those fellows whose lives are a chain of lucky and unlucky incidents. I am constantly meeting with misfortune—my own fault, I dare say—but I always come out ahead in the game. Write a new story, and I will use all my influence with Mr. Howkins to have it published as a 'special feature.' Now tell me that you forgive me."

She put out her hand, smiling through her tears, and went away.

When the first batch of criticisms for the number of the magazine came in I braced myself to bear the references to the story I had ruined as one about to be executed nerves himself for the ordeal. With the first I caught a faint gleam of hope. Here it is:

The story by Miss Eaton, "What's It All About?" is, judging from its name, what it is doubtless intended to be—a puzzle. What principles are covered under the strange ending probably only students of the introspective school will be able to explain satisfactorily. In this respect the story will excite great interest.

The next was evidently a criticism by some critic who was possibly hurrying, as I had done, to the country and had only skimmed the early part of the story, for he pronounced the ending "just what might be expected in this inferior class of work." The third spoke of the pleasant style in which "What's It All About?" was written—an easy way of criticising a story the critic is too busy to read. Seven critics gave hypothetical explanations of the mystery attending the closing chapters. In the whole batch of criticisms there was not one which indicated that the story had been slaughtered by a graceless scamp in a hurry to get away on a pleasure trip.

In view of the attention these criticisms called to the story the author found no difficulty in securing a publisher for it in book form. It was considered too deep to have a large sale except among critical, analytical, philosophical and skeptical people, but it made a name for the author, and she has made a fortune.

I suppose I should have had the modesty to consider myself well out of a bad scrape and acknowledge my fault. To Howkins I did; to Miss Eaton I did not. I threw out a hint that seeing the story as she had written it was doomed to failure I had concocted a scheme to make it a success and make her famous. Her gratitude gave me not only her for a wife, but the management of her fortune.

Victories that are easy are cheap. Those only are worth having which come as the result of hard fighting.—Beecher.
